Continuation of 5. does NOT place the application in condition for allowance because: for reasons set forth in the prior office action. Particularly, the pending claims are directed to a method of adminstering a compound (e.g., potassium salt) to to the air way of a subject (e.g., with cystic fibrosis). As discussed in the ealier office action, such method are anticipated by the prior art. A different interpretation of the function provided by the compound does not make the old and well-known method patentable distinct over the cited prior art.
